

COFFEE MAKES GOOD FLAVORING MATTER

Hints for Housewives Seeking Substitutes for Wines and Cordials.

Have you paused to think what a difference national prohibition will make in the family kitchen? Wines and cordials have long served as a standard flavoring for various delectable desserts which appeal particularly to men.

As a substitute lets consider coffee. Men almost without exception are fond of coffee and the average household bill of fare is planned with a view to the likes and dislikes of the lords of creation.

But here a word of warning: To get the best results in the use of coffee flavoring it should be prepared just as carefully as you brew your coffee for the morning or after-dinner beverage.

Few Americans know the possibilities of this aromatic berry as a flavor. Our French neighbors across the sea consider coffee as a flavor par excellence, for desserts and confections.

To produce a superior coffee flavor in these articles of diet, a study should be made of the best method of extracting the desirable qualities from the bean, for the predominating flavor obtained in the finished product will depend upon the method employed in the decoction.

There is an erroneous notion that the long boiling of coffee extracts more of the strength and color, and is therefore more economical; but strength and color thus gained are obtained at the expense of flavor and wholesomeness.

As one authority puts it: "The strength and flavor of roasted coffee is ground out, not boiled out. Coffee does not reach the consumer in the raw state but 'coffeed.' It has been roasted at least 20 minutes.

The proportion of coffee to the amount of water used will, of course, determine the strength of the decoction. As tastes differ greatly, no determination of measurements can be given. The briefest contact of the coffee and boiling water is enough. Continued 'steeping' brings out undesirable flavors.

The recipes given below have been thoroughly tested:

Coffee Caramel Parfait.

- 1 cup milk.
- 4 tablespoons ground coffee.
- 1 cup sugar.
- Yolks 3 eggs.
- 1-8 teaspoonful salt.
- 3 cups cream.
- 1 teaspoonful vanilla.

Scald milk with coffee in a double boiler and add one-half the sugar that has been caramelized; then add yolks of eggs mixed with remaining sugar and salt. Cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly, and add one cup thin cream. Cool, strain, add two cups thin cream, and vanilla. Pack in one-half pound baking powder boxes, filling boxes to overflowing. Adjust covers, pack in salt and ice, using equal parts, and let stand two hours. Freeze, using three parts finely crushed ice to one part rock salt. Remove from molds to cold platter and roll in blanched almonds cut in thin slices, and delicately browned in moderate oven.

Coffee Mousse.

- 1 cup strong coffee.
- 1 quart cream.
- 1 cup sugar.
- 1-2 tablespoons granulated gelatin.

2 tablespoons cold water.
3 tablespoons hot water.
Combine the coffee, sugar and gelatin that has been soaked in cold and dissolved in boiling water. Set in pan of ice water and stir until it begins to thicken; then fold in whip cream, put in mould; half pound baking powder can with a tightly fitting cover can be used. Adjust covers, pack in salt and ice, and let stand four hours.

Coffee Ice Cream.

- 1 quart cream.
- 1-2 cups milk.
- 1-3 cups finely ground coffee.
- 1-2 cups sugar.

1-4 teaspoon salt.
Yolks of four eggs.
Scald milk with coffee, add one cup sugar; mix egg yolks slightly beaten with one-fourth cup sugar and salt; combine mixtures, cook over hot water until thickened, add one cup cream, and let stand on back of range twenty-five minutes; cool, add remaining cream, and strain through double cheese-cloth; freeze. Coffee ice cream is delicious and may be served in halves of cantaloupes.

Coffee Sauce.

- (To be served with vanilla ice cream)
- 1-2 cups milk.
- 1-2 cup finely ground coffee.
- 1-2 cup sugar.
- 3-4 tablespoon arrowroot.
- Few grains of salt.

Scald milk with coffee, and let stand twenty minutes. Mix remaining ingredients, and pour on gradually the hot infusion which has been strained. Cook five minutes and serve hot.

Coffee Custard.

- 4 tablespoons ground coffee.
- 1 quart milk.
- 2-3 cup sugar.
- 1-2 tablespoon cornstarch.
- 1-8 teaspoon salt.
- 4 eggs.

Add the ground coffee to the milk, put in a double boiler and scald, keep the lid on during the preparation, strain carefully. Pour the hot liquid over the well beaten eggs sugar and cornstarch and salt. Strain and bake in a moderate oven. When puffy on top and firm in the center, the custard is finished.

Coffee Jelly.
1-2 box gelatine or 2 tablespoons granulated gelatin.
2 cups strong coffee.
1-2 cup cold water.
1-2 cup cocoanut.
1-2 cup sugar.
Soak gelatine twenty minutes in cold water, dissolve in boiling water, strain, and add to sugar and coffee and cocoanut. Turn into mould, and chill. Serve with sugar and cream.

Coffee Frappe.
3 cups strong coffee.
1 cup sugar.
1 cup thick cream.
Dissolve the sugar in the coffee. Chill. Add the cream and freeze to a mush. Use an equal quantity of ice and salt in packing the freezer. Serve in sherbet glasses.
